FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY

February 1, 2026

Something Bigger Than Us

The beatitudes could easily be read as a list of rewards and consequences, and the kind of behaviors that will merit one or the other. We are well accustomed to understanding the world in such terms. Children receive rewards for good behavior. Students earn awards or scholarships. Athletes win medals or trophies. Success is a ladder we climb and, if we've done our part, our job is rewarded in the end.

Jesus talks about a great reward, but it's not one we can earn. On a closer look, the nature of many of the so-called "blessings" in the beatitudes is as much about what is done to us as about anything we do for ourselves. Jesus begins his sermon by going up the mountain, but his words push us not to new heights but to greater depths. Poverty of spirit, mourning, meekness, hunger, thirst, and persecution—these are not behaviors to strive toward for a reward. Instead, they are circumstances in which we can find ourselves when the ladder we've been climbing falls to the ground. Alternatively, to be merciful or pure in heart or a peacemaker is to choose to get off the ladder altogether for the sake of something bigger than our small selves.

The beatitudes as a whole suggest that Jesus wants more for us than simply collecting a heavenly prize in the end. His blessings assure us that all along the way, no matter our circumstances, we have an inherent, God-given dignity that no one and nothing can strip from us. At the table of Christ, all who hunger and thirst for righteousness are filled. This meal isn't awarded to us for a job well done. Rather, it feeds us for the work still to be done, that of sharing God's mercy and peace with others.

The cost to provide backpacks is $5 a weekend or $20 a month. Currently, there are 100 children on this list, which means $2,000 a month is needed for the backpacks. Requests have been made to Mission Agape to double the number of children, which means $4,000 a month to cover the costs of the backpacks. Mission Agape plans to work with local legislators to gain support. But we at Faith can help too!

Field trip opportunity - It's a field trip to Mission Agape to see what they do and the community they serve! Food distributions are on Fridays. We can coordinate a carpool. No date set yet, but keep a lookout for the future.

New Gratitude List is located on the bulletin board in the narthex! Pick up a pen and jot down anything that you're feeling grateful for.

We are looking for a used wooden dining room table with several chairs in good condition to create an extra meeting space in the lounge area. Please contact the office or Pastor Wendy if you have one.
